Title:

Sustainable Development:
The role of international scientific organizations

Speaker:

Peter McGRATH

Affiliation:

TWAS, Trieste, Italy

Abstract:

In 2015, three major international agreements were signed, each of which will have a major impact on sustainable development in the coming years. Science needs to play a major role in the implementation of these three agreements. International scientific organizations - including those based in Trieste - must play a critical role in this process if these agreements are to achieve their targets.
