

Abstract

Although 3D Einstein gravity is devoid of local degrees of freedom, in this talk we will show how global excitations associated to space-time identifications produce nontrivial one-loop contributions to the gravitational partition function, in the case of vanishing cosmological constant.