

Title: Combinatorics of lattice paths

Lecturer: Hans HÖNGESBERG

Counting lattice paths is not only interesting by itself, it is also a powerful tool for tackling various enumeration problems. In this course, we will introduce important classes of lattice paths, and we will see how they are connected to other combinatorial objects. We will then introduce several techniques for the enumerations of such lattice paths.