

School on Applied AI for Sustainable Development

DESCRIPTION:

The School covers key aspects of appliced AI, focusing on designing, developing, and deploying practical solutions to real-world problems. It aims to equip scientists, primarily from developing countries, to tackle local challenges and contribute to global sustainability goals.

MORE INORMATION:

Embedded devices running ML models are becoming increasingly powerful, evolving from Cloud-based AI to EdgeAI. This shift enables the creation of more complex, sustainable, and real-time AI solutions for applications such as environmental monitoring, particle detection and classification, radiation monitoring, smart agriculture, waste management, and beyond.

The School includes hands-on exercises, group discussions, and case studies to reinforce key concepts. Participants will be introduced to open-source methods, software tools, and hardware platforms relevant to real-world deployment. The School is linked to multiple MSCA EU-funded projects (ROBUST / AIAS / ANTIDOTE), and the Annual Workshop of the Rural Environmental Monitoring via ultra wide-ARea networKs And distriButed federated LEarning (REMARKABLE) EU project.

TOPICS:

- Foundations of AI & Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs)
- Sector-Specific AI Tools and Technologies
- Introduction to TinyML and EdgeAl
- Data cleaning
- Heterogeneous Computing
- Fundamentals of Applied ML
- Sensors and Data Collection
- ML and Model Compression for FPGA-based EdgeAI Devices
- Edge AI for the Internet of Things: Insights from Real-World Projects
- Ethical & Sustainable AI

23 - 27 March 2026

Trieste, Italy

Deadline:

1 December 2025

DIRECTORS:

P. Calciati, PDM, Portugal M. L. Crespo, ICTP, Italy L. M. Serra Da Costa Campos, PDM, Portugal M. Zennaro, ICTP, Italy
